TAKING NEW STRIDES TO TRANSFORM GHANA'S PUBLIC PROCUREMENT LANDSCAPE: YOUR ROLE, MY ROLE

KEY NOTE ADDRESS BY THE HON. MINISTER OF FINANCE AT THE 7TH PUBLIC FORUM OF THE PUBLIC PROCUREMENT AUTHORITY-WEDNESDAY, 28TH OCTOBER, 2015 @ THE COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

Hon. Ms. Mona Quartey, Deputy Minister of Finance delivering the keynote address at the PPA 7th Public Forum on Wednesday 24th October, 2015

THEME: “TAKING NEW STRIDES TO TRANSFORM GHANA'S PUBLIC PROCUREMENT LANDSCAPE: YOUR ROLE, MY ROLE.”

Mr. Chairman;
Colleague Ministers;
Members of the Governing Board of the Public Procurement Authority;
Chief Directors;
Heads of Institutions;
Management & Staff of PPA;
Distinguished Guests;
Friends from the Media;
Ladies and Gentlemen;

Preamble

I wish to express my appreciation to the Public Procurement Authority for the opportunity to partake of this all important programme. In fact, the Authority deserves the highest commendation for its resolve and consistency over the years in delivering on this statutory provision of organizing its annual public forum almost every year since its establishment. I am reliably informed that even in this period of austerity and financial constraints, the Authority has employed other innovative ways such as sponsorships in times past and the introduction of participation fees (this time round) all in a bid to partially meet its obligations to provide this rare opportunity and platform for knowledge sharing and discussions on critical public procurement issues that concerns national development. This, in fact, is a clear indication of the Authority's firm belief in the importance of stakeholder engagement and the need for accountability and transparency in the process of public procurement management. Well done PPA.

Ladies and gentlemen, it is also worth noting that Authority in pursuance of its mandate and objectives have continued to make great strides in advancing public procurement management in the country. For instance, the Authority has in response to global calls for Sustainable Consumption and Production (SCP) and the recent adoption of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG's) has successfully introduced the concept of Sustainable Public Procurement to over 500 public procurement practitioners across six regions of the country through its nationwide roll-out sensitization programmes. It is presently reviewing its Standard Tender Documents to incorporate the application of SPP and other new policies in public procurement to ensure its effective implementation in due time.

The Theme:

Mr. Chairman, the choice of the theme for this year's forum, “TAKING NEW STRIDES TO TRANSFORM GHANA'S PUBLIC PROCUREMENT LANDSCAPE: YOUR ROLE, MY ROLE” could not have come at a better time than this, especially when the nation is considering amending the Public Procurement Act, 2003 (Act 663) . These amendments are expected to propel public procurement into a second generation reform process.

Ladies and gentlemen, having implemented the Act 663 for more than a decade, Government on its part has proposed new provisions to the public procurement law intended to transform Ghana's Public Procurement Landscape and take into account some of the current international best practices.

Thus, if the proposed amendments are passed by Parliament, existing hierarchical structures within the public procurement system which cause undue delays are going to be adjusted and also make way for decentralized procurement in line with the Decentralization Policy of Government. The proposed amendments will also address challenges identified in the implementation of the Act and introduce other initiatives like Framework Contracting and electronic procurement.

Key areas proposed for amendment, include the reconstitution of the membership of ETCs (and Tender Review Boards as applicable) to comprise only internal staff of Entities, in order to encourage and deepen ownership of purchasing decisions.

Furthermore, substantial increases are also being proposed to the approval threshold limits of Entities. If approved by Parliament, Heads of Entities will have approval limits of up to GH¢100,000.00 for Goods & Services and GH¢150,000.00 for Works. Entity Tender Committees will also have approval limits of up to GH¢1,000,000.00 for Goods & Services and GH¢2,000,000.00 for Works.

Finally, to reduce excessive administrative costs and enhance efficiency, all tender review boards with the exception of the Central Tender Review boards will be dissolved and Ministries, Departments and Agencies will have to work towards the Central Tender review Committees while the Metropolitan, Municipal and District Assemblies will have the Regional Tender Review Committees to review all their procurement activities with reference to the new thresholds.

Mr. Chairman, another landmark reform underway and expected to have significant impact on the public procurement landscape is the Public Financial Management Reforms (PFMR) Strategy 2015-2018 with key public procurement interventions namely-

The enforcement of requirements for MDAs & MMDA's to prepare their annual procurement plans as part of budget preparation and approval processes;

Review of the Public Procurement Act, 2003 (Act 663) to address regulation rigidities and other weaknesses;

Build capacity of MDAs & MMDA's for effective Procurement Management;

Outreach to the Private Sector to enhance capacity of Goods and Service Providers to be able to submit responsive tenders; and

Deploy electronic systems such as the e-Procurement Planning Tool and the e-Government Procurement System which will be integrated and interfaced with the GIFMIS and Budget Hyperion System to achieve budget credibility, fiscal discipline and improved public procurement management in the country.

Ladies and gentlemen, this is the time for all to get on board. The days of accusations and counter accusations on the challenges of the public procurement reforms must be over and done with. Public Procurement Issues must be approached by our collective efforts. For instance, the preparation of annual entity procurement plans should not be the responsibility of only procurement officers. All functional units within institutions must make it a point to support this process by furnishing their Procurement Units with their procurement requirements at the beginning of the budget preparation period. Heads of Entities must also ensure that their Entity Procurement Plans are effectively done with realistic contract estimates with appropriate procurement methods, steps and lead times and ensure that the plans are approved by the Entity Tender Committees and duly submitted to the Public Procurement Authority.

Service Providers also owe it a duty to improve on their business practices and ensure that their capacities are well built to remain competitive. They must ensure that they obtain the necessary and valid documentations and certifications such as Tax Clearance and Certificates of Commencement of Business from relevant institutions to support their tenders and shy away from collusive arrangements and other corrupt practices that destroys the sanctity and integrity of tendering processes.

Civil Society Organizations are also encouraged to continue to collaborate with the government in order to streamline efforts at ensuring accountability and transparency in all public procurement processes. We urge them to carry on with their watchdog roles and raise the necessary alarms in a bid to correct any malfeasance and help reduce the high levels of perceptions of procurement related corruption and rather increase public confidence in Ghana's Public Procurement System.

Let us not be like the proverbial four people –Everybody, Somebody, Anybody and Nobody who when there was a job to done, Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what Anybody could have done.

It is time to arise and work together to transform Ghana's Public Procurement Landscape, it is indeed, Your Role and My Role.

Thank you for your kind attention.

Report by Hon. Samuel Sallas-Mensah, Chief Executive Officer, Public Procurement Authority on Wednesday, 28th October, 2015 at The College of Physicians & Surgeons, Accra on the Occasion Of PPA's 7th Public Forum

Hon. Samuel Sallas-Mensah-Chief Executive Officer - Public Procurement Authority addressing the PPA Public Forum

THEME: “TAKING NEW STRIDES TO TRANSFORM GHANA’S PUBLIC PROCUREMENT LANDSCAPE: YOUR ROLE, MY ROLE.”

Mr. Chairman,
Hon. Minister,
Hon. Members of Parliament,
Members of PPA’s Governing Board,
Heads of Institutions,
Chief Directors,
PPA Management,
Friends from the Media,
Distinguished Ladies and Gentlemen.

Preamble

On behalf of the Governing Board of the Public Procurement Authority I warmly welcome you all to our 7th Public Forum today.

All too soon, another year is with us and once again, we are gathered in this same place to deliberate on critical issues pertaining to public procurement in Ghana. For me, my greatest joy is in knowing that our country still has a critical mass of stakeholders and procurement practitioners like you whose undoubted commitment and support to the course of achieving transparency and accountability is worthy of commendation. Indeed, we are humbled by your teeming support which have made today’s programme a reality.

Ladies and gentlemen, the PPA, in the year under review, performed its functions as stated in Sections 3 of the Public Procurement Act, 2003 (Act 663) under eight (8) broad functions of the Authority namely-

- Benchmarking, Monitoring and Evaluation;
- Policy & Strategy;
- Capacity Development;
- Management Information Systems;
- Legal;
- Human Resource and Administration;
- Public Affairs and
- Finance & Audit.
- Benchmarking, Monitoring & Evaluation

- Procurement Planning

Mr. Chairman, Planning as we all know, is an essential component to success and the as the adage goes, failure to plan is definitely planning to fail. Thus, the PPA in line with efforts to periodically assess the conduct of public procurement in the country, closely monitors the preparation and submission of Entities Procurement Plans. According to our records, although about Two Hundred and Seventy Six (276) procurement entities posted their procurement plans, it only marks an increase of 5.34% compared to the number of procurement plans submitted in 2013 and therefore still leaves more room for improvement.

We hold this matter very dear to our hearts because we believe that most of the adhoc and unprofessional approaches to public procurement will be largely curtailed as long as there is strict adherence to realistic public procurement planning. We will therefore urge all Heads of Institutions, Members of Entity Tender Committees and Procurement Officers to take this aspect of public procurement management very seriously and collaborate with us to achieve budget credibility and fiscal discipline in our wider Public Financial Management efforts.

Policy & Strategy

Procurement Records Management

To ensure effective records management of procurement activities, the Authority engaged the Public Records and Archives Administration Department to develop Procurement Records Management Operational and Training Manuals. These documents will form part of the Training Programme on Contract Management that the Authority intends to roll out in 2016 with the support of the AfDB. It is our hope that, this initiative will help procurement professionals and practitioners keep accurate procurement records for better accountability in the public procurement process.

Framework Agreements

The pilot implementation of this concept, in the year 2014, covered Two Hundred and Seventy-Five (275) Second-cycle institutions (schools) in Six Regions namely - Greater Accra, Ashanti, Central, Eastern, Western and Volta Regions. It is expected that a full roll-out of the concept among MDAs, MMDAs and Senior High Schools in other locations countrywide will be subsequently carried out bearing in mind lessons learnt in the pilot phase.

Sustainable Public Procurement

In response to global calls for Sustainable Consumption and Production and the attainment of the Sustainable Development Goals, the PPA under its Sustainable Public Procurement (SPP) Project embarked on a nation-wide training programme in 2014 in six regions, namely: Greater Accra, Western, Central, Eastern, Northern and Upper West regions. In all, Five Hundred and Seventy (570) procurement practitioners have been trained.

Capacity Development

Distinguished ladies and gentlemen, considering the significant role capacity development plays in the effective implementation of the Act 663, the Authority with guidance from its Capacity Development Policy conducted a number of Specialized short term training programmes.

On a whole, a total of Four Hundred and Ninety-Three (493) Public Officials from selected MDA's and MMDA's were trained on the various provisions of Act 663.

It is gratifying to note that the various evaluations conducted at the end of each training programme revealed that Participants had gained additional knowledge and skills which would help them tremendously in the application of Act 663 to ensure value for money in their respective institutions.

Management Information Systems

During the year under review, the PPA redesigned and re-launched its website. In view of this, the website in 2014 attracted over Seventy-Two Thousand, Nine Hundred and Twenty-One (72, 921) unique visitors which represents about 2.94% increase over the figures for the previous year. We believe that, this increase can be attributed to the educational drive embarked on by the PPA to encourage patronage and accessibility of information on Tendering opportunities, Contract Awards and other procurement-related information. Furthermore, continuous publication of the Bi-monthly Procurement e-Bulletin on the website also attracted visitors to the website.

Publication of Contract Awards

As part of efforts to monitor trends in contract awards and improve on transparency and accountability in Ghana's Public Procurement System, the Authority publishes information on Contract Awards on its website. Mr. Chairman, at the close of 2014, contract awards from Open Tenders posted on the website amounted to Four Hundred and Three (403) compared to the 2013 figure of Seven Hundred and Eighty-Seven (787), showing a marked decline of 48.79%. Also, there was a 6.37% shortfall in the total number of Restricted Tender Contracts Awards posted on the website which was One Hundred and Forty-Seven (147) compared to the 2013 figure of One Hundred and Fifty-Seven (157).

Moreover, ladies and gentlemen, in a bid to break the "myth" and the general perception of potential abuses in single source procurement as a method of procurement, the Authority began the publication of Single Source contract awards on its website in September, 2014. At the end of year, over One Hundred and Sixty-Five (165) Single Source Contracts had been posted on the website with details on Contract Sum, Address of Providers, Contract Awarding Entity and reasons or justification for the approval of the use of the Single Source method.

We will once again urge Procurement Entities to promptly furnish the PPA with information on Contract Awards as soon as they are awarded in order to enable us keep effective records.

Average Price Database of Common User Items

The PPA continued to maintain a Price database containing average prices of some common user items on its website. The Price Database was reviewed and updated twice during the year, and currently contains prices of Nine Hundred and Eighty-Seven (987) Common-Use items. It is gratifying to note that this Average Price Database is being used by Entities for evaluation and planning purposes to achieve realistic estimates of contracts.

Legal

Amendment of Public Procurement Act

Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to announce that the long awaited Public Procurement (Amendment) Bill, 2015 (copies of which are in your folders) has been finally gazetted and is currently before Parliament patiently awaiting passage as part of a batch of finance bills expected to be considered and passed into law by Parliament soon. (Highlights of the proposed amendments will be presented by the Director Legal soon after my report and we will encourage you to take a keen interest and contribute in discussions).

Board Affairs

During the year under review, the Governing Board of PPA received a number of applications under section 16(2) of the Public Procurement Act for exemptions from the use of the Public Procurement Act. These applications, ladies and gentlemen, were all denied. The Board declined such applications on the basis that operating under the Act afforded several options in terms of procurement methods and structures which facilitate and provide better accountability in their operations. Moreover, the Board was of the view that these applying institutions failed to effectively demonstrate how their use of the Public Procurement Law had adversely affected them. In our opinion, with the passage of the proposed amendments, the financial thresholds will be appreciably enhanced to offset any operational challenges.

Other applications for declaration of entity status under section 16(1) of the Public Procurement Act, were also received from two (2) institutions and are currently being considered.

Appeals & Complaints

To improve public confidence in the public procurement system and provide effective dispute resolution mechanism in the form of Administrative Review of public procurement activities, the Authority through its Appeals & Complaints (A&C) Panel in the year under review, received six (6) new cases, majority of which have been dealt with. It is however unfortunate that most of these petitions continue to border around complaints of malfeasance and unprofessionalism in conducting tendering processes and improper use of procurement procedures.

Human Resource & Administration

The PPA continued to maintain a lean and yet effective staff strength of about Sixty-Three (63).

To develop a highly motivated and skilled set of professionals to for enhanced public procurement management in the country, a number of Staff with support from development partners during the year under review attended various long-term and short-term local and international programmes which we hope will go a long way to meet our objectives.

Public Affairs

Mr. Chairman, the year 2014 saw PPA undertaking a number of Communications and advocacy activities to create the needed awareness and enhance visibility of PPA's activities and programmes.

To this end, the Authority in the spirit of peer-learning embarked on study tours to some selected Public Procurement Regulatory Institutions in Africa under the Africa Development Bank (AfDB)-Ghana Institutional Support Project (GISP). Institutions visited included:

The Public Procurement & Assets Disposal Board (PPADB) in Botswana;

The Public Procurement Oversight Authority (PPOA) in Kenya;

The Office of the Director of Public Procurement (ODPP) in Malawi;

The Rwanda Public Procurement Authority (RPPA) in Rwanda;

The Public Procurement & Regulatory Authority and the Public Procurement Appeals Authority (PPRA & PPAA) in Tanzania; and

The Public Procurement & Disposal Authority (PPDA) in Uganda.

At the end of these benchmarking visits, the Authority was able to:

-Assess the state of play of implementation of the public procurement reforms in the selected countries;

-Appreciate the Legal and Institutional Frameworks adopted for effective procurement management; and

-Explore other innovative interventions that are being considered for adoption to address critical challenges identified in the implementation of Ghana's Public Procurement law.

Inauguration of New Board

Distinguished ladies and gentlemen, after the expiration of the tenure of the earlier Board, the President, His Excellency John Dramani Mahama in accordance with Section 4 (2) of Act 663, appointed a new Board which was inaugurated in February this year. Ladies and gentlemen, it is my singular honour to introduce to you PPA's Governing Board Members (which happens to be one of the most gender balanced Boards in the country in the persons of:
